Application No.: 10/075,000 Docket No.: SCEI 3.0-118

IN THE CLAIMS

1-17. (canceled)

- 18. (currently amended) An information transmission method, comprising:
- a first information processing process comprising the steps of capturing input speech information, changing the input speech information to character data, and sending the character data to a network—including—a remote server—as; and
- a second information processing process comprising the steps of receiving the character data via the network, and changing generating second speech information from the received character data, to speech information. Outputting the received character data, and using the second speech information to output speech.
 - 19. (canceled)